

Management and Leadership

SCHOOL OF BUSINESS

Overview

The Management and Leadership certificate is your gateway to becoming an effective leader.

Guided by experienced industry instructors, you'll build a strong foundation for success as a manager, team lead, or supervisor.

In this program, you'll gain hands-on experience managing projects and leading teams. Prepare yourself to guide a team through change while ensuring continuous improvement. Develop leadership, interpersonal, accounting, and project management skills to apply in various situations.

Customize your learning experience by choosing two electives aligned with your needs and interests.

In this program, you will:

- learn to apply basic financial and accounting principles in a business setting
- understand organizational behaviour
- learn to demonstrate responsible leadership in complex and dynamic environments
- gain insights into human resources management theory and how it applies in the workplace
- develop personal skills and professional behaviours essential for upholding general management practices
- apply project management theories and tools to complete projects and achieve goals through effective teamwork
- use information and communication technology to enhance business efficiency.

Put your abilities to the test in a work-integrated learning project. This final course will enhance your critical thinking, communication, collaboration, and organizational capabilities.

The leadership training and development you will gain from this program will prepare you for management jobs in any industry or organization, from health care to human resource management.

Traits, skills and aptitudes

Those in management tend to be innovative, directive, and social.

You need:
