

Radio, Television and Broadcast News - Broadcast News Major

SCHOOL FOR ADVANCED DIGITAL TECHNOLOGY

Overview

Are you ready to step into the spotlight and make your mark in the world of media? The Radio, Television, and Broadcast News program's Broadcast News major is your gateway to an exciting career as a news or sports anchor.

Maybe you'd like to be a sideline host for Hockey Night in Canada? Or a content creator with your own YouTube channel, podcast or website? This program will help you get there.

Hands-on training for the real world

You'll receive extensive, hands-on training that equips you for the broadcast environment. We understand the importance of real-world experience, and you'll have plenty of it.

Journalistic integrity and deadline respect

Our curriculum emphasizes the core principles of broadcast journalism, instilling in you the value of journalistic integrity. You'll learn to craft compelling stories while upholding the highest ethical standards. You'll master the crucial skill of meeting deadlines.

Diverse roles in real-life simulations

Prepare to wear many hats! In our real-life simulations, you'll take on various roles that mirror the dynamic world of broadcast news.

Whether you're a reporter on the frontlines of breaking news, a producer orchestrating a live broadcast, a web editor shaping online content, a newscaster or sports anchor, a live reporter capturing events as they unfold or a weather presenter, you'll gain invaluable experience that sets you apart.

Challenging, creative, and career-ready

Our broadcasting program is designed to challenge your skills, stretch your creativity, and prepare you for a rewarding career in various media-related fields.

This program involves two years of full-time study, along with an industry practicum in your fourth semester.

You'll emerge with a solid content creation and broadcasting foundation, ready to make your mark in the industry.

Traits, skills and aptitudes

Those in the broadcast field are innovative, social, and methodical.

You need:

- curiosity
- initiative, persistence and resourcefulness
- objectivity and integrity
- creativity
- an accurate memory
- communication and interview skills
- research and critical thinking skills
- physical and emotional stamina to cope with the pressures of competitive, fast-paced work
- solid news judgment
- an interest in people and current events.

You should enjoy finding new approaches to stories, dealing with people, generating interest in news stories, and compiling information methodically. You will also need composure and poise on camera or the microphone.
